Felix Batot, president of the Hondo Lumber Company, who sustained a painful injury to his knee in a fall

However, his condition is steadily improving but the time when he will
again resume his duties with the company seems somewhat remote.

"There are accidents in the best
regulated of families." A rural town
community is, in a way, one large
family, and it is often that things occur
that all regret and that no good could
come from having the distressing details noised abroad. The Anvil Herald
is one in just such a community group.

It wants to be a builder and not a sensational purveyor. Therefore, it would rather miss a sensational story
and draw the mantle of silence over
any fault of those among whom it
labors than to add one iota to the
shame and sorrow of the innocent
who would suffer more than the guilty.

Knowing how the Anvil Herald feels
about it, you can doubtless understand
why you do not see some things in its columns.

Today is Trades Day.

Today is Hondo's regular Trades Day. No special efforts have been put forth to make it a success and it is doubtful if it proves as fruitful of results as one could wish for it.

If the Trades Day is to continue and be of any help to the community more interest must be manifested in it and a more concerted effort must be put forth to make it a success.

A Trades Day is not just simply a merchants' bargain day. Bargains offered by the enterprising merchants of the community are helpful, but they alone cannot make a successful Trades Day. People with farm and ranch products to dispose of must make of it an occasion to trade these products. Buyers of such products must be induced to be on hand on these occasions to bargain for them.

These are the main things that make Trades Days successful.

If any one knows how to bring about this happy consummation—knows how to make the Trades Day function—this paper would like to hear from them.

The paper is free to admit that the Trades Day is not producing the results it should. Something must be done or it will cease to be.

Poll Tax Receipts.

A check of the poll tax receipts issued by Tax Collector Muennink shows that the voting strength of Medina county at the fall election will be greater than ever cast at a previous election. The rolls show a total of 2,742 poll tax receipts issued, and 56 exemptions, making a grand total of 2,798 permits to vote. When the "overs" (those who have reached the age of 60 years), are added to the above our voting strength will approximate 3,000.

The vote by precincts is as follows:

Precinct No.	1—North Hondo	236
"	2—Quibi	156
"	3—Dunlay	90
"	4—Verdina	27
"	5—Riomedina	207
"	6—Castroville	287
"	7—D'Hanis	298
"	8—Haass	15
"	9—Natalia	50
"	10—East Devine	105
"	11—Zig Zag	49
"	12—Yancey	153
"	13—Cliff	84
"	14—Biry	70
"	15—Lacoste	214
"	16—South Hondo	370
"	17—Upper Hondo	44
"	18—Elstone	48
"	19—West Devine	255
Total		2,742
Exemptions issued		56
Grand total		2,798

Collector Muennink also reports a total of 1,121 motor vehicles registered. It is probable that no other county in West Texas can show as many motor driven vehicles as are
found right here in Medina county.

WITH THE CHRISTMAS PLANTS

Trees and Flowers Are Believed to Owe Peculiarities to Connection With Jesus.

THE legend of the Glastonbury Thorn is that after the death of Jesus, Joseph of Arimathea came over to England. Shortly before Christmas, he rested on the summit of Weary-all hill, Glastonbury. There he thrust into the ground his staff, and on Christmas eve it was found to be covered with white blossoms. The bush is said to have continued blooming thus each Christmas eve until during the civil wars, when it was cut down. Cuttings from the original thorn are said to bloom in this same wonderful way even yet.

The Silician children put penny-royal in their coats on Christmas eve, believing that at the exact hour and minute when Jesus was born it will blossom.

There is a cherished legend in the East that the Rose of Jericho first blossomed at the birth of Jesus, closed at the crucifixion, and opened again at Easter, from which comes its name of Resurrection flower.

Many plants, trees and flowers are believed to owe their peculiarities to their connection with the birth or the childhood of Jesus. "The Star of Bethlehem" is so called because its white starlike flowers resemble the pictures of the Star of the East.

"Our Lady's Bedstraw" received its name because it was believed that the manger in which the Babe lay was filled with this plant.

An old account tells the story in this manner: "The broom and the chick-peas began to rustle and crackle, and by this noise betrayed the fugitives. The flax bristled up. Happily for her, Mary was near a juniper; the hospitable tree opened its branches as arms and inclosed the Virgin and the Child within their folds, affording them a secure hiding place. Then the Virgin uttered a malediction against the brooms and the chick-peas, and ever since that day they have always rustled and cracked. But later the Virgin pardoned the flax its weakness and gave the juniper her blessing," which is said to account for the use of the juniper as Christmas decorations in some countries.

Adeste Fideles

THIS well-known and greatly loved Christmas hymn was used at Benediction at Christmastide in France and England since the close of the Eighteenth century. It was sung at the Portuguese legation in London as early as 1797. The most popular musical setting was ascribed by Vincent Novello, organist there, to John Reading, who was organist at Winchester cathedral from 1875-81, and later at Winchester college. The hymn itself has been attributed to St. Bonaventura, but is not found among his works. It is probably of French or German authorship. It invites all the faithful to come to Bethlehem to worship the new-born Savior.—Catholic Encyclopedia.

No Worms in a Healthy Child

All children troubled with Worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC, given regularly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a general strengthening tonic to the whole system. Nature will then throw off or dispel the worms, and the child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. 75c per bottle.

Next time ask for REDSKIN TUBES.

Can't See a Fat Man.

Nobody loves a fat man, not even the jitney bus driver.

You see it's like this: The more passengers the jitney driver can get in his bus the more nickels he gets. Naturally, he can carry more lean persons than fat ones.

Well, when he spots a fellow weighing 250 or thereabouts, on a corner, motioning for him to stop, it's more than an even bet he will speed on to the next corner.

An unfortunate circumstance is that the lean passengers are getting wise to the fact that the bus will not stop at the corner when a fat man is in the crowd, and they shun him.

Nobody loves a fat man, not even a jitney bus driver.

Canada a Good Customer.

Canada is the second best customer of the United States. This is proved by trade statistics recently issued by the Canadian government covering the fiscal year ended March 31. Great Britain is the largest buyer. Canada's imports from the great republic last year averaged $100 per capita of Canada's population. Its total imports amounted to $1,240,125,056. This was an increase of $175,000,000 over imports of the previous year, due, according to authorities, to heavy buying in the United States. The grand total of trade done by Canada during the last year was $2,450,553,175.

Dustless Highways Increase.

The rapidity with which the American people are turning to the dustless highway is shown in figures recently compiled from reports to the United States bureau of mines. The figures show that in the last eight years 5,000,000 tons of asphalt and asphaltic materials have gone into American highways—a quantity sufficient for 50,000 miles of roads and streets. The asphaltic treated highways in the United States, if connected in one great roadway sixteen feet wide, would twice circle the globe.

A girl's frame of mind has less to do with her reflections than the frame that holds her mirror.

WOULD HAVE CRITIC MODEST

After All, as Is Here Set Forth, He is Merely Expressing His Own Opinion.

I shall not pretend that when I call the poetry of Milton good I suppose my judgment to have more validity than what may be claimed for that of the urechin who says the same of peppermints, wrote Olive Bell recently in the New Republic; but I do think a critic should cultivate a sense of humor. If he be very sure that his enthusiasm is the only appropriate response of a perfectly disinterested sensibility to absolute beauty, let him be as dogmatic as is compatible with good breeding; falling that, counsel as great a measure of modesty as may be. Let him remember that, as a rule, he is not demanding homage for what he knows to be absolutely good, but pointing to what he likes and trying to explain why he likes it. That, to my mind, is the chief function of the critic.

An unerring eye for masterpieces is of more use to a dealer than to him. Mistakes do not matter; if we are to call mistakes what are perhaps no more than the records of a perverse or obscure mood. Was it a mistake in 1890 to rave about Wagner? Is it a mistake to find him intolerable now? Frankly, I suspect the man or woman of the nineties who was unmoved by Wagner of having wanted sensibility, and him or her who today revels in that music of being aesthetically oversexed. Be that as it may, never to pretend to like what bores or dislike what pleases him, to be honest in his reactions and exact in their description, is all I ask of a critic. It is asking a good deal it seems to me. To a lady who protested that she knew what she liked, Whistler is said to have replied: "So, madame, do the beasts of the field."

Why does it take two to make a quarrel if a man and his wife are one?

All young men fall in love, but most of them manage to climb out again.

Roast Pig.

Have your butcher prepare the pig for roasting and lay him in cold water for fifteen minutes. Dry him inside and out with a soft cloth. Make a stuffing of bread crumbs, seasoned to taste with salt, pepper, parsley, sweet marjoram and thyme; moisten with butter, and work into the dressing two beaten eggs. Stuff the pig so that he will hold his original size and shape, and after sewing him up bend his fore legs backward and his hind legs forward under him. Skewer or tie him in this attitude and after dredging him well with flour put him, with a little water, in a covered roaster. Roast for an hour and a half before removing the cover, then rub him well with butter, baste him with the gravy in the pan and roast half an hour longer, basting twice during that time. Apple sauce should be served with him, a lemon should be in his mouth, cranberries in his eye sockets.—The Delinquent.

IN DOUBT

Wife — This year you must tell me just what you are going to give me for Christmas.

Hubby — But how do I know what you have decided upon?

Christmas in the Shetlands.

In the Shetland islands they celebrate an old Christmas Eve, January 5, and on that occasion the young men and children go "a-guizing." The children disguise themselves in strange dresses, parade the streets and invade the houses and shops begging for offerings. At one o'clock the young men, coarsely clad, drag blazing tar barrels through the town, blowing horns and cheering. At six o'clock in the morning they put off their grimy clothes and dressed in fantastic costumes go in groups to wish their friends the season's compliments.

You certainly realize the difference in Corn Flakes
when you eat Kellogg's

From the instant you open the generous sized package till they're tucked away in great and tiny "bread-baskets," Kellogg's Corn Flakes are a never-ending delight! You can't even look at those big sunny-brown flakes, all joyously flavored, crisp and crunchy, without getting mighty hungry! Kellogg's are never leathery or tough or hard to eat—they're just wonderful!

Such a spread for big and little boys and girls—the sweetheart of fine white southern corn kernels deliciously flavored and deliciously toasted in Kellogg's own way! You can't imagine anything more joyous to eat, or more ideal for fussy appetites at any hour!

Kellogg's Corn Flakes are childhood's ideal food! Kiddies can eat as much as they can carry! Every mouthful makes for health.

The Oldest Man
in the World

Just part of a skull, two molar teeth and a thigh bone pieced together they made—what? One of the most perplexing mysteries in the study of human history.

Were these the remains of an ape-like man?

Scientists believe that they were; they call the "Dawn Man," and out of the record embedded in the rocks they have reconstructed the conditions of his life. How he killed his food (the raw flesh from the bones); how he died and fought and died! How little by little he clawed and clutched his way up to mastery over the beasts. It is a fascinating, gripping story it is only one of a thousand stories that stir blood in this greatest book of modern times.

H. G. WELLS' "Outline of History"

Now Offered You at One-Third the Original Price

A history that goes back 100,000,000 years—that traces man's rude beginnings 500,000 years ago—that follows him down through the ages to the Babylon of Nebuchadnezzar, the France of Napoleon, the America of today, through the Great War and on into the future of the United States of the World—that gives ALL history as one story—that is Wells'.

Not only the history of the world, but the science of the world; the outstanding literature of the world; the philosophy of the world—a vast panorama unrolled before your eyes by the most graphic word painter of modern times.

And The REVIEW of REVIEWS Too

Wells begins with the dawn of time; before there were men; before there were even reptiles. In broad, magnificent strokes he paints the picture, bringing you straight down to 1919. Alexander the Great; Napoleon; the French Revolution; the American Civil War; the Great War; the future of the world. Never a dull moment. Never a paragraph that is not crystal clear.

And where Wells stops the Review of Reviews takes up the story. His is the history of the past; the Review of Reviews records and interprets the history of the world today. It is fitting that these two should be yoked together. By yoking them we are able to offer you an educational course such as you get at no school in the land.

So Considerate.

Two golfers sliced their drives into the rough and went in search of the balls. They searched for a long time without success, a dear old lady watching them with kindly and sympathetic eyes.

At last, after the search had proceeded for half an hour, she spoke to them.

"I hope I'm not interrupting you, gentlemen," she said sweetly, "but would it be cheating if I told you where they are?"

painful injury to his knee in a fall

However, his condition is steadily improving but the time when he will

again resume his duties with the com-

"There are accidents in the best

regulated of families." A rural town

community is, in a way, one large

family, and it is often that things occur

that all regret and that no good could

come from having the distressing details noised abroad. The Anvil Herald

is one in just such a community group.

It wants to be a builder and not a sensation purveyor. Therefore, it would rather miss a sensational story

and draw the mantle of silence over

any fault of those among whom it

labors than to add one iota to the

shame and sorrow of the innocent

who would suffer more than the guilty.

Knowing how the Anvil Herald feels

about it, you can doubtless understand

why you do not see some things in its

columns.

from her left hand and fell on her right hand, lacerating the tendons at the wrist. Surgical assistance was rendered, but considerable time will be before she regains normal

use of the wounded hand, but everyone is glad that the mishap did not result in a more serious injury.

Today is Trades Day.

Today is Hondo's regular Trades Day. No special efforts have been put forth to make it a success and it is doubtful if it proves as fruitful of results as one could wish for it.

If the Trades Day is to continue and be of any help to the community more interest must be manifested in it and a more concerted effort must be put forth to make it a success.

A Trades Day is not just simply a merchants' bargain day. Bargains offered by the enterprising merchants of the community are helpful, but they alone cannot make a successful Trades Day. People with farm and ranch products to dispose of must make of it an occasion to trade these products. Buyers of such products must be induced to be on hand on these occasions to bargain for them.

These are the main things that make Trades Days successful.

If any one knows how to bring about this happy consummation—knows how to make the Trades Day function—this paper would like to hear from them. The paper is free to admit that the Trades Day is not producing the results it should. Something must be done or it will cease to be.

Poll Tax Receipts.

A check of the poll tax receipts issued by Tax Collector Muennink shows that the voting strength of Medina county at the fall election will be greater than ever cast at a previous election. The rolls show a total of 2,742 poll tax receipts issued, and 56 exemptions, making a grand total of 2,798 permits to vote. When the "overs" (those who have reached the age of 60 years), are added to the above our voting strength will approximate 3,000.

The vote by precincts is as follows:

Precinct No.	1—North Hondo	296
"	2—Quihy	156
"	3—Dunlay	99
"	4—Verdina	27
"	5—Riomedina	307
"	6—Castroville	287
"	7—D'Hanis	298
"	8—Haass	15
"	9—Natalia	50
"	10—East Devine	105
"	11—Zig Zag	49
"	12—Yancey	153
"	13—Cliff	94
"	14—Biry	70
"	15—Lacoste	214
"	16—South Hondo	379
"	17—Upper Hondo	44
"	18—Elstone	48
"	19—West Devine	255
Total		2,742
Exemptions issued		56
Grand total		2,798

Collector Muennink also reports a

total of 1,121 motor vehicles registered. It is probable that no other

county in West Texas can show as

many motor driven vehicles as are

found right here in Medina county.

CONCLAVE

ELECTION OF A POPE.

This paper is published the day after the election of a successor to the late Benedict XV as Pope of Rome and head of the Catholic Church. The regulations governing the election of a Pope were issued in the 19th century and the procedure will be explained briefly in the following lines:

The Pope is elected by the Sacred College, meeting in Conclave. The Sacred College is composed of the Cardinals who are seventy, though this number is seldom complete, and are today only 60 living. Some of whom will be present. By Conclave is meant the part of the palace reserved to the Cardinals and their attendants during the time of the election. The term "conclave" is derived from the members of the Sacred College assembled for the purpose of electing a new Pope.

The Conclave opens on the tenth day after the death of the Pope, that is on the second day. Every precaution is taken to avoid communication with the outside; the Cardinals, secretaries and servants are sworn not to inform any person about what happens in the Conclave. On the morning of the eleventh day, the Cardinals assemble in the Pauline Chapel, where the Cardinal-dean celebrates Mass, after which an election in Latin is made on the part of the Cardinals. A person for the see of Rome is elected. Soon afterwards, they assemble in the Sixtine Chapel, where they are offered to ask for the Miss Patricia FitzSimon came out from San Antonio Friday to spend the week-end with her parents.

Mrs. Chas. Haby and sister, Miss Minnie Wurzbach, of Riomedina, were shopping here Monday.

Mrs. Eugen Mangold and children are visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Mangold at French Settlement.

Mrs. Emil Biry of Biry is visiting her sister, Mrs. Chas. Suehs, this week.

Mrs. Albert Tschirhart and son, Roy, were here from Noonan Wednesday.

Mrs. John Schuehle of St. Louis Hill and daughter, Mrs. Fritz J. Etter, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Lee Mangold here Friday.

Mr. Jos. Courand and son, Francis, were out from San Antonio Friday.

guidance of the Holy Spirit, and the Cardinals are left alone, the door being locked. There is no proposing a candidate nor verbal nomination. The vote is by secret ballot and for an election a two-thirds majority is required exclusive of the vote of the successful candidate. Only in case of a close vote, the ballot of the Pope-elect is investigated. The ballots are cast in a chalice on the altar where six candles are burning. Whenever the two-thirds majority is not obtained, the ballots are mixed with straw and are burnt. The smoke coming through a chimney of the Sixtine Chapel is a sign that there was no election. There are two votes taken, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. There is no rule about the state of life or the nationality of the future Pope. However, since Adrian VI (1523) the choice has fallen on one present and invariably upon an Italian Cardinal. One reason seems to be because the Pope is primarily the Bishop of Rome.

When a candidate has received the two-thirds of the votes, the Cardinal-Dean asks whether he accepts the election, and by what name he wishes to be known. This is in imitation of St. Peter, whose name was changed from Simon. His affirmative answers make him the visible head of the Catholic Church. The first Cardinal-dean announces the election to the public from the central balcony of St. Peter's Basilica overlooking the great Piazza, or (since 1870) the announcement is made from the Church itself. If the newly-elected Pope was not a Bishop (some Cardinals are only Priests) he would be consecrated at once by the Car-

EDITORIALS

BY THE EDITOR.

VAIN, valueless and pitiful is that life which finds not its work, which makes no particular effort to do something promotive of the common good, which does not undertake to comfort some heart, to allay some pain, to encourage some discouraged soul each day. This is why the thoughtless frivolous person, seeking only his or her own pleasure, cannot attain to real happiness. It is not to be found in that sort of life. Real happiness is found only in righteous living, and a life which is not active in good deeds is not a righteous one.—Galveston News.

COMMISSIONER Geo. F. Terrell, of the Texas State Department of Agriculture, who attended the farm conference in Washington City last week, thinks the conference was called by President Harding as a matter of political expediency. The much heralded emergency tariff of last year failed to bring any substantial relief to the agriculture of the country. Seeing the deplorable condition in which the farmers were finding themselves, a number of Senators and Representatives, representing farm constituencies, associated themselves in a non-partisan "bloc" for the purpose of pushing through congress legislation intended to bring relief to the farmers. This bloc was becoming so influential that party leaders became jealous of it. Hence President Harding's call for the conference in order that his party might counteract some of the growing popularity of the "bloc." One hates to think so serious a matter would be made a political poker to thus rake Republican chestnuts out of the fire, but stranger things have happened in politics.

THE lower house of congress has passed the anti-lynching bill on a purely partisan vote. There is little doubt that sooner or later it will pass the senate, and another outrage upon the reserved rights of the States will have been written into the law. We have become so accustomed to that sort of thing that it might pass with little notice, but in voting for that measure the House of Representatives has added to the danger that menaces every white woman in the black belt of this country, and becomes particeps criminis to numerous outrages that will follow as a result of the license fiends in human form will take as a result of this mistaken legislation. Instead of decreasing lynching it will have the opposite effect and will compel a frequent resort to it, until misguided brutes are taught that white men will protect their woman-kind regardless of man-made laws. This is a harsh, cruel thing to say, but the truth is usually just that, and the National Congress had as well know in advance that it cannot by edict change the laws of nature or stand guiltless of its own sins.

dinal-Dean. However, he enjoys full jurisdiction from the time of the election, which needs no confirmation from any power. On the following Sunday or holiday, the ceremony of "coronation" takes place, and from that day, the Pope dates the years of his pontificate.

Regarding the interference of civil powers, it suffices to say that the Cardinals are under a strict oath not to be influenced by any outside authority. Meanwhile, the Catholics of the whole world are urged to pray that the most worthy man may be chosen. In these circumstances, the world may rely on the members of the Sacred College to be absolutely impartial in selecting a new Supreme Pontiff, the 260th successor of St. Peter, who will successfully work for the glory of God, the welfare of Christianity and the salvation of mankind.

FRANCIS PALLANCHE.

SOME FARM FACTS.

BY FLETCHER DAVIS.

One of the most important farm conferences ever held in this country met in a five day session at Washington City last week. The conference was called by Secretary of Agriculture, Henry C. Wallace, at the suggestion of President Harding. It was attended by a great many farmers and representatives of farmers' organizations from all over the land, and was addressed by the leaders in the agricultural thought of the country. Almost every phase of the farmer's problem was touched upon by the speakers in a thoughtful, earnest way.

Addressing the conference, President Harding said: "This conference was called with the aim to bring about a general understanding of the critical situation now confronting American agriculture. * * * Concerning the grim reality of the present crisis in agriculture there can be no difference of opinion among informed people."

"The depressions and discouragements", he continued, "are not peculiar to agriculture and I think it is fair to say there could have been no avoidance of agricultural slump from wartime excesses to hardships of re-adjustment. We can have no helpful understanding by assuming that agriculture suffers alone, but we may fairly recognize the fundamental difficulties which accentuate the agricultural discouragements and manacle the healthful life of this basic and absolute necessary industry."

"While understanding that the conference is not a legislative body", he added, "we do confidently anticipate that the considerations here will be helpful and illuminating to those immediately responsible for the formulation of public policy in dealing with these problems."

As is usual in all such conferences, while agreeing that the agriculture of the country is in sore straits that calls for some remedial measures, nearly every speaker had some pet panacea to propose for that relief.

Among the more prominent measures proposed as offering help in relieving the situation is better credit facilities for farmers—longer time loans on a low rate of interest;—rehabilitation of Europe and the restoration of the farmer's foreign market; better and cheaper transportation facilities both by land and water; co-operative — or collective — buying and selling; reduction of retail prices; and tariff readjustments.

While less agreed as to the remedy for the crisis than as to the fact of its existence, it is generally agreed that all of these suggestions might be made helpful if properly applied. But as to how to apply any of them in an effective manner, if the press dispatches are to be relied upon, the conference was barren of any real results. As usual, the conference found it easy to locate the illness and determine its cause, it had an abundance of helpful nostrums proposed, and it quit without discovering means to apply an effective remedy.

The chief value of the conference will lie, therefore, not in the relief measures proposed but in calling attention to the ills sought to be cured. Commissioner Geo. B. Terrell of the Texas State Department of Agriculture, who attended the conference, thinks it "probably will do more to emphasize the deplorable conditions of the farmers and the utter dependence of business industry upon the stability of the agricultural interests than any other meeting ever held in this country." If it does that it will have accomplished some good. This is probably the most that should be expected of it or hoped for it.

The President doubtless had this in mind when he said: "It cannot be too strongly urged that the farmer must be ready to help himself. This conference would do most lasting good if it would find ways to impress the great mass of farmers to avail themselves of the best methods. By this, I mean that in the last analysis, legislation can do little more than to give the farmer the chance to organize and help himself."

"The farmer does not demand special consideration to the disadvantage of any other class; he asks only for that consideration which shall place his vital industry on a parity of opportunity with others and enable it to serve the broadest interests."

Granted that equal opportunity, the farmer can have no just cause to complain at or expect more of his government. He will then watch his overhead to the end that his expenses are reduced to the minimum; he will make his farm as near self-sustaining as possible; he will then grow as economically as possible such products as the world will take commercially at a profit to himself; he will do his own marketing through his own agency; and he will prosper.

The following suggestive paragraph from a cotton broker's circular shows how the South is being watched by the commercial interests of the world: "The course of cotton price will, of course, very largely depend upon the extent of early crop preparation. Mill and trade interests are on the alert and will watch this feature closely. The mild winter throughout the South is favorable to the boll weevil. The Fertilizer situation in the Eastern belt may prove another strong bull argument. If the fertilizer companies maintain their present attitude of "cash or no fertilizer" it is certain that hundreds of thousands of acres will be planted without proper fertilization, which, of course, forecasts crop disaster should adverse weather conditions develop during the growing period." And the strongest factor in any possible price advance is a minimum crop acreage.

IS YOUR HEALTH GRADUALLY SLIPPING?

Interesting Experience of a Texas Lady Who Declares That if More Women Knew About Cardui They Would Be Spared Much Sickness and Worry.

Navasota, Texas.—Mrs. W. M. Peden, of this place, relates the following interesting account of how she recovered her strength, having realized that she was actually losing her health:
"Health is the greatest thing in the world, and when you feel that gradually slipping away from you, you certainly sit up and take notice. That is what I did some time ago when I found myself in a very nervous, run-down condition of health. I was so tired and felt so lifeless I could hardly go at all.
"I was just no account for work. I would get a bucket of water and would feel so weak I would have to set it down before I felt like I could lift it to the shelf. In this condition, of course, to do even my housework was a task almost impossible to accomplish.
"I was . . . nervous and easily upset. I couldn't rest well at night and was . . . just lifeless.
"I heard of Cardui and after reading I decided I had some female trouble that was pulling me down. I sent for Cardui and began it . . .
"In a very short while after I began the Cardui Home Treatment I saw an improvement and it wasn't long until I was all right—good appetite, splendid rest, and much stronger so that I easily did my house work.
"Later I took a bottle of Cardui as a tonic. I can recommend Cardui and gladly do so, for if more women knew, it would save a great deal of worry and sickness."
The enthusiastic praise of thousands of other women who have found Cardui helpful should convince you that it is worth trying. All druggists sell it.

Do you have a dull, steady ache in the small of the back—sharp, stabbing twinges when stooping or lifting—distressing urinary disorders? For bad back and weakened kidneys—Hondo residents recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this Hondo statement.
Joseph Mechler says: "I can highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for I know they are good. I was taken with a severe backache and had dull pain in my kidneys day and night.
When I stooped I could hardly rise up again. My kidneys didn't act right and I had to get up at nights on this account. A friend told me about Doan's kidney Pills, so I used them and was helped. Two boxes of Doan's made my back as strong as iron and made my kidneys act like clock work."

We should not fail to recognize that in the general interest in law there lurks a subtle danger—a danger whose approach is so silent that it may cause dire results before its presence is fully appreciated. The danger that unrestrained effort to regulate all human affairs by law may result in government by impulse and that individual may be displaced by attempted mass development through state action.
We should not forget that the citizen is not made for government, but that government is made for the citizen. The part that the individual should play in the advance of civilization cannot in safety to a healthy condition of society be so restricted by governmental action that man shall become a government developed and a government controlled machine, nor should it be so unrestricted as to endanger, if not destroy, social order. The border line between license and liberty shifts location with the changes in social order evolved from within or enforced from without. On the other hand, we should not stubbornly adhere to a sometime worn, much mouthed principle that is presented as a bar to progress and an obstruction to reason.—Thomas H. Franklin.

"CRADLED IN SAP TROUGH"
Expression That Has a Far Deeper Meaning Than the Homely Words
Would Seem to Express.

"Cradled in a sap trough" was the cant phrase in popular compliment to Millard Fillmore, thirteenth President of the United States. Its use in Fillmore's case is said to have arisen from the circumstances that when old Nathaniel Fillmore, the Vermont-born farmer and pioneer in western New York, who was Millard Fillmore's father, was asked for the receipt for making one's son President of the United States, he answered, "Cradle him in a sap trough!" How many can tell what a sap trough is, and how the youthful Fillmore happened to be cradled in one? A sap trough, gentle reader, is the trunk of a tree dug out, somewhat in the style of a dugout canoe, for the purpose of holding maple sap or conducting it from the trees to the vat or kettle, where it is boiled. As the log is left "rounding" on one side, it will, if pushed, oscillate from side to side, and consequently might serve as a cradle for an infant, for want of anything better. Under the primitive circumstances in which Nathaniel Fillmore lived as a pioneer, it is probable that any other sort of cradle for the infant was impossible, and so his mother, Phoebe Millard, caused her husband to bring into the cabin in which they lived a sap trough, in which she gently rocked her baby from side to side.
Naturally it was not the sap trough that worked the magic in the child's character and opened his path to the Presidency, but the stern virtues, rugged perseverance and healthy audacity which the pioneer life engendered in him. The sap trough was but the symbol.

Probably no babies are now cradled in sap troughs anywhere. Indeed, sap troughs are no longer made in the maple woods. Tin serves the purpose better, and you cannot cradle a baby in a tin spout.

Duse Struggled to Fame.

The daughter of poor Italian players, Eleanora Duse was made to do her share in supporting the family at four years old, when she played Cosette. From then on she was always working, playing first one role and then another, always traveling from place to place in dirty third-class Italian railway carriages, often hungry and cold. There was nothing to compensate for the drudgery of this life.
She was not heralded as any child prodigy, in fact her companions looked upon her as a rather stupid, plain little girl, who was absolutely hopeless as an actress. Duse's greatness did not manifest itself until she was a mature woman. Rachel was famous at seventeen, but Mrs. Siddons was twenty-seven before she made her first great impression, and Duse was twenty-four before she showed evidence of genius. She had achieved a few small successes before that, but it was on her twenty-fifth year in Naples, after her first sad love affair, that she brought the Italian public to her feet.

Store Robbed.

Last Sunday night the store of Earl Boon was entered and the value of several hundred dollars taken. Entrance to the store was effected through a rear window by the thieves breaking one of the glass windows.

Early morning officers got busy and located a portion of the loot on the bridge east of Hondo. The thieves were poorly concealed and it was a crude effort on the part of the officers to throw the thieves off their trail, but they overlooked a clue which led to their undoing. One of the officers concluded he would dress himself in one of the new suits, and in the old clothes, which he had in the "cache", he failed to examine the pockets as closely as the officers and this oversight will cause a sigh of regret in the years to come. A receipt for a fine paid in the man, dressed in one of the suits with the price tags still on, with three pals, all Mexicans, was taken to the law.

A search of their homes in Sabinal revealed more of the Boon goods, and it was the discovery that the same goods had recently burglarized a store in Uvalde, consequently they will have more than one charge to answer. Hiding the goods under the bridge of town it was the evident intention of the thieves to create the im-

Howard Laughinghouse.

When the soul of Howard Laughinghouse passed through the portals that lead to the life beyond the grave last Saturday morning, Medina county became poorer for she had lost a sterling citizen.

Deceased had for several months been battling with a malady that has baffled medical skill from the dawn of time, and while his intimate friends knew that the hand of the grim reaper could not long be stayed, the greater number of our people were shocked and grieved when they learned that the end had come and his soul was with its Maker.

Deceased was the last of the Laughinghouse brothers who settled in this vicinity more than a quarter of a century ago, and by his quiet, unassuming demeanor surrounded himself with a host of friends who will long hold him in affectionate memory.

His funeral occurred Saturday afternoon, and despite the inclement weather a large number of sorrowing friends followed his remains to their last resting place in the Hondo cemetery, Rev. Geo. G. Smith, pastor of the Methodist Church, officiating.

Mr. Laughinghouse is survived by his widow only, no children having been born to their union. To his grief-stricken consort, deprived of her life mate, words of consolation would be mere mockery. Time, and time alone, the healer of all wounds, can heal the scars made by the untimely passing of her husband.

A good man and an affectionate husband has gone before, and will greet his loved ones left behind in the realm beyond the skies in the sweet bye and bye.

Music and Songs in the Schools.

"Music and Song have always played an important part in the life of a people and should, therefore, have an important place in the system of education of any community, state or nation. Good music is necessary not only for enjoyment and recreation, but also for inspiration and for salvation from death in the din and dust of trade; and this music should be democratic in the truest and best sense. This it can never be until it becomes an integral part of the education given in the schools of all the grades of our commonwealth.

Music has a great cultural and practical value though many regard it merely as a source of pleasure, and think of it as a pleasing and ornamental 'frill'. Music is as natural to the human being as speech, hence the importance of not letting the child's musical instinct starve in his infancy. Rubenstein says, "The study of the musical language is like that of all other languages. He who learns it in infancy can become a master of it; but at an advanced age it is almost impossible to acquire it. Few people realize the great value of music study as a mind-training, yet many teachers have declared that music drills the mind as very few other school studies can. Our present schools should teach the pupils to read simple music readily and accurately, to take down music from dictation, and even write original melodies. Such training develops the memory and power of perseverance, and fosters the imagination and artistic sense. Music also exerts a unifying, harmonizing influence. Every school should have special songs in the singing of which they may voice their love and loyalty to each other to their school and to their country.

In accordance with instruction from the national headquarters the schools of Medina County are requested to observe National Week of Song beginning February 19-25 inclusive. Let all the children memorize "America" and "Star Spangled Banner". Teach other patriotic songs. Invite your patrons and community to participate in this week of song. The growth of community music means many things. It means an endless source of pure and genuine pleasure to those who listen and much more to those who participate. It means that we are beginning to create and perform our own music through our own efforts. It means that America is discovering at last that she is a united nation and is expressing her joyful sense of unity in music and song.

W. N. SAATHOFF,
County Superintendent, Medina County.

Armin Bendele was up from the ranch Monday. He says he has forty-five acres of oats that have withstood the drouth well and are nearly ready for grazing. While the precipitation was very light in his section, he thinks the drizzle of the past week will be very beneficial to his oat crop.

USE WORDS OF SHAKESPEARE IN MEMORY OF "THE MAID"

Americans Employ Idioms of Great Poet Really More Faithfully Than Do Englishmen.

An English paper expresses the hope that the Americans will not yield to the temptation to develop a new language, but will "cling to the speech of Shakespeare." It may be remarked that Americans, and particularly Americans of the country districts, are clinging to the speech of Shakespeare rather more tenaciously than Englishmen are. In many respects where in the speech of England has departed from the Shakespearean the everyday language of America has adhered to it.

In all Shakespeare it would be impossible to find the use of the word "stop" for "stay," in the sense in which it is employed today in English. An Englishman "stops in bed." Shakespeare, like the Yankee, uses "stop" only in the sense of the cessation of motion; where we use "stay," Shakespeare employs it. Shakespeare also "guesses" very much as we do. Even our rustic localisms, such as the "fals" of a wagon, which you will find in "Troilus and Cressida"—"We'll put you in the fals"—are found in Shakespeare. Our American "cake is dough," if things have gone amiss, just as we find the expression in "Taming of the Shrew." Some English editors have been unable to make out the meaning of that phrase. Shakespeare, with us, has "slivers" for splinters or thorns. He also has "base ticks"; he has a "muss" for a fight, "decks" of cards, and "flap-jacks." Englishmen have to be told what Shakespeare means when he talks of "orts," but no American farmer would. The pages of Shakespeare, indeed, are simply sprinkled with Americanisms.

One thing that differentiates our speech from that of England is its retention of English archaisms. We have indeed adopted new words for new things, and in doing so, as in the technical terms of the railroads, have diverged from British usage. But in most lingual respects we are great clingers.—Boston Transcript.

See Colony as Great Asset.

Of late years France has begun to revive an interest in the Kerguelen islands, discovered by the French navigator, Kerguelen Tremarec, in 1772. According to Henry Boissiere, who, with his brother, has devoted himself to the development of these islands, they will soon become a prosperous colony. They contain no trees, but an immense quantity of a fodder plant, a species of cabbage, which is eagerly eaten by horses, sheep, pigs and rabbits. Rabbits, rats and mice are the only indigenous animals. There is also a single bird, the sheathbill, which lives in company with the sea birds. The sea elephants, which had been practically exterminated by 1840, are now again very numerous. The waters around the islands also abound in whales, and it is upon the whale and sea elephant fishery that the hopes of developing a useful colony rest.

No Uncommon Name.

He is a close little neighbor of the West Indianapolis branch library and diligently practiced writing his name in order to make out a card. The day he brought his application all signed to the desk was a proud one for him. The librarian found just one flaw. His father's name was not written in full. "What is your father's first name?" she asked.

The triumphant smile faded. "I don't know," he said thoughtfully. "You don't know what the C stands for?" the librarian questioned.

"No."

"What does your mother call him?" she continued.

The confident smile returned. "She calls him 'hon,'" he replied promptly.

Timely Warning.

One day early last spring the manager of a baseball team lined up his men and said: "All you fellows who have been in vaudeville during the winter, step forward."

Almost half the team advanced from the line.

"Now, boys," he said to them, "I want you to bear in mind one thing. You are on the diamond, not on the stage now, so when you make a hit and the audience applauds it, don't stop to bow on your way to first base."—Boston Transcript.

Insects Big Pest.

Insect pests cause an annual loss to the world's field crops of $125,000,000, according to the report of the entomological branch of the Canadian department of agriculture, which is carrying on an "anti-waste" research campaign to discover effective countermeasures. The botany branch of the department claims to have saved $40,000,000 a year by its crusade against smut and its control of late blight and rot of potatoes.

Ancient Cross in St. Germain Forest, Erected by Famous Soldier, Has Interesting History.

On the occasion of the recent Jeanne d'Arc festivals the syndicate of St. Germain-en-Laye, had a marble tablet fixed to the "Croix Pucelle" (Cross of the Maid) to explain the origin of this little monument buried in the depths of the forest near the town.

Before the present highway from St. Germain-en-Laye to Poissy and Meulan was built, the road, now abandoned, passed the Croix Pucelle. "This cross," says its historian, Louis Catelan, according to L'Illustration, Paris (translated from the Kansas City Star), "is of sandstone, a rude gothic in style, roughly quarried and rugged in aspect." It bears the Maltese cross, symbol of chastity, and, above, in modern characters, the words "Croix Pucelle, 1456." Thrown down during the Revolution, it was raised again in 1801, at the time of the Concordat, and the stonecutter carved the gothic inscription on it in his own way, a clumsy piece of work.

The date 1456 is the year in which the pope at Rome reinstated the heroine, who had been burned as a witch. Without doubt, it was to commemorate this act that the Maid's cross was erected on this old roadside by Dunois. He was among the first to believe in Jeanne's mission. It was he who received her upon her arrival at Orleans, took her to his headquarters, found lodging for her at the house of his paymaster, Jacques Boucher, fought on her side in all her battles, and at the sack of Reims, and, finally, finished her work of liberation.

In the midst of his campaigns Dunois often went to St. Germain, which he loved, and where, in 1368, he died. He had lived in the castle there as a child and, later, had been a prisoner there for a year. Subsequently he had recaptured the place from the English. He used to hunt in the neighboring forest. In 1456 Dunois was the king's lieutenant and journeyed frequently from the provostship of St. Germain to the captaincy of Meulan. It is reasonable to suppose, therefore, that it was he who, in 1456, had the Croix Pucelle erected at the crossroads.

Church Hymnal Revised.

Sweeping reforms are to be made in the new hymnal now being compiled for the Church of England. The changes include the abolition of "The Church's One Foundation," "Peace, Perfect Peace," and many other well-known hymns, revision of "Te Deum," and the bringing in of hymns to be sung at science lectures. Compilers of the "General Hymnary," as it is to be called, suspended their labors during the war, but have recently resumed work. "The Church's One Foundation" is to be dropped because it is full of mixed metaphors. A hymn by Longfellow beginning "One holy church of God appears," takes its place. Doctor Bickersteth's hymn, "Peace, Perfect Peace," is objected to because of the words, "The blood of Jesus whispers."

First Savings Bank.

At the village of Rothwell, in Dumfriesshire, Scotland, may be seen a small private dwelling house, a tablet on the wall of which indicates the fact that the first savings bank in that country, if not in the world, was opened there by Rev. Henry Duncan in 1810.

At first the people did not take kindly to the idea of depositing their money with another person, and it was many years before any considerable number of depositors was reached. But when it was shown that it was quite safe to deposit money, and it became known that interest was given, the Rothwell bank became quite an important institution.

At first the money was kept in a strong wooden trunk, fastened by two heavy padlocks.

Auto Industry Gigantic.

The capital tied up in automobile in the United States is estimated as over $6,000,000,000, according to the Railway Age, which figures it out by items: Depreciation on 7,623,551 cars at 20 per cent, on average cost of $1,200, interest on the money invested; gasoline, state license fees, insurance premiums, garage and service costs, labor costs for repairs, etc. These estimates do not include expenditures for construction and maintenance of highways, nor for the cost of automobile accidents.

Would Signal Correct Time.

A dimming of electric lights each night at eight o'clock as a national time signal is being urged as a measure that will distribute the correct time regularly to all who are within sight of an electric light. In the same way that the time ball is dropped down the staff at noon and clocks are regulated by telegraphic or radio signals from the naval observatory in Washington, it is suggested that power plants regularly flash the correct time daily over their electrical systems.

Polite Modification.

"We'll call our big prize fight a boxing match, of course."

"Let's make it milder than that. Let's call it a motion picture rehearsal."

RONDOIERS PROGRAM IS HIGH SPEED MUSICALE

"Lyceum's Live Test" Entertainers Made Up of Clever Musical Artists.

The Rondoliers is the one entertainment in Lyceum which always beats the gun at the kick-off. It is a musical marathon from the time the curtain lifts, and a high speed race right through the last note of the "Good-Night" lullaby.

It is "Lyceum's Liveliest" and one of the cleanest and best entertainments now before the public. Press reports, wherever this company has appeared, have been extremely commendatory during the present tour this season.

The company is to appear here on the evening of February 9th, at the Auditorium.

These versatile entertainers present many different orchestral arrangements. You will hear the trumpet quintet, the saxophone trio played by three demure little musical maids, the Rondolier orchestra, with its stirring melodies, the splendid violin solo work of William Larson, the piano solo numbers of Della Erickson; the reading of Emily McGregor; Walter Reed on the violin, saxophone or cornet; or the delightful soprano voice of Gertrude Erickson. Literally "snap" and "Punch" that is fast spreading the name and fame of The Merry Rondoliers.

Zone 3 is Under Tick Quarantine.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 2.—Governor Neff today at the instance of the State Livestock Sanitary Commission issued a proclamation declaring a tick quarantine to become effective April 1, next.

J. Boog-Scott, chairman of the commission, who was here in connection with the issuance of the proclamation, said that the quarantine sections are known as Zone No. 3 Under the provisions of the proclamation there must be compliance with the rules and regulations of the Livestock Sanitary Commission governing inspection, dipping, movement, certification and otherwise limiting the cattle, horses and mules in the quarantine area.

MUCH OF SOUTHWEST INCLUDED.

Zone No. 3, in which quarantine is declared in today's proclamation, embraces the following counties: Aransas, Atascosa, Austin, Bastrop, Bexar, Bee, Brazoria, Burleson, Calhoun, Cameron, Chambers, Colorado, De Witt, Dimmit, Fayette, Fort Bend, Frio, Galveston, Goliad, Gonzales, Grimes, Hardin, Harris, Hidalgo, Jackson, Jim Hogg, Karnes, Kleberg, LaSalle, Live Oak, Lavaca, Matagorda, Maverick, Medina, McMullen, Nueces, Refugio, San Patricio, Starr, Uvalde, Victoria, Waller, Washington, Wharton, Willacy, Wilson, Webb, Zavala and Zapata, and parts of Brooks, Duval, Jim Wells and Kennedy.—San Antonio Express.

Boehle-Breiten.

A pretty wedding was celebrated at the Lutheran Church Wednesday afternoon when Miss Mary S. Breiten became the bride of Mr. Ernest D. Boehle, Rev. A. Faikenberg, pastor of the church, officiating.

The bride is the winsome granddaughter of Mrs. Joe Breiten of the Lower Hondo, and is esteemed by a large circle of friends.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Boehle of the Quibi section, but for the past few years has been making his home in Hondo, and is classed among the rising young business men of this section.

The happy young couple were honored with a wedding dance at Biry Hall Wednesday night, and a large number of their friends and well-wishers were present to engage in the merry making and to offer congratulations to the newly wedded couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Boehle have located in Hondo.

That their wedded life may prove one of unalloyed happiness and prosperity is the ardent wish of a hosts of friends.

Business Good at Depot.

Judging from the car-lot business at the local depot, not to mention local freight and express shipments, business in Hondo is not so bad. During January there were forwarded from this point the following car-lot shipments: Corn 25, Oats 1, Hay 9, Maize 1 and Livestock 1. The incoming shipments were: Cement 2 cars, Coal 1, Lumber 2, Flour 4, Oil and Gasoline 5, Salt 2 and stocker cattle 1.

So long as a community can ship almost a car load of corn for each working day of the month things can't be so bad.

IS IT MATTER OF RELIGION?

Admitting That More Women Than Men Go to Church, Writer Invites an Argument.

Consider the popular view that women are more religious than men. The real point seems to be that women are more inclined than men to go to church; which is a very different thing.

Sunday is related to the week as the evening to the day. For man, therefore, it is a day at home; and for a woman a day out. A man's idea of Sunday is to surround his house with barbed wire, lock and barricade the doors and windows, disconnect the telephone, put on his slippers and an old suit, and then devote the day to reading the paper and "puttering." A woman's idea of Sunday is to have everything cleaned and polished up, including the children; everybody in best clothes; and then have half of her friends in in the afternoon, and visit the other half in the evening.

Now it is not difficult to see which program and mood most easily accommodates itself to public worship. If you are all dressed up and socially inclined, what can be more natural and agreeable than to go to church? And if you are down cellar, in old clothes, building bookshelves out of a packing case, what can be more impossible?—Ralph Burton Perry, in the Atlantic Monthly.

Where America Leads.

According to a writer in the Chicago Sunday Tribune, the United States leads the universe in: Libraries, jails, universities, blind pigs, newspapers, payroll robberies, automobiles, bank deposits, Bibles, profiteers, sneak thieves, divorces, movies, bulldogs, patent medicines, silk stockings, labor unions, scented soap, safety razors, safes, safe-blowers, lawyers, mechanical pianos, mahogany furniture, diamonds, imitation diamonds, murders, acquittals, continuances, elections, laws, law-breakers, railroads, freight rates, souvenir postal cards, telegrams, billiard tables, opinions, cabarets, peroxide, safety matches, dark alleys, taxicabs, office-holders, descendants of Irish kings, delinquent messenger boys, skyscrapers, bunko steers, pie, counterfeit money, promissory notes, collectors, vaudeville actors, horseshoe pins on soft shirts under bow ties, patent leather shoes, electric lights, watermelons, foreign missionaries, millionaires, Elks, business women, handbooks, radiators, home made beer, and good guys.

Fills in Education.

A pet theory of Rex Ingram, producer of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and "The Conquering Power," is that motion pictures will in time virtually supplant oral instruction in the schools. He believes that the eye impressions work more powerfully on the brain than those of things heard.

A test of the theory, it is said, was made recently in Detroit, where a school class was divided into two groups of equal intelligence. One group had a motion picture lesson; no explanation was given by a teacher. The lesson lasted 13 minutes. The other group received oral instruction from a teacher for 55 minutes. Then each group was tested on the lesson. The average grade of the motion picture group was 3.26 per cent higher than that of the oral group.

Hygienic Dish-Washing.

The hygienic importance of electric dish-washing has been shown in a report by Surgeon J. G. Cummings of the United States army. Investigating the effects of the influenza epidemic in institutions having a quarter of a million people, it was found that where dishes were washed by hand there were 324 cases of the disease per 1,000 persons; but in hotels and other places having electric dish-washers the rate was only one-third as great, or 108 per 1,000. The washing by the machines is not only more thorough than hand washing, but hotter water is used, and this insures more effective sterilization.

Weather Report

The Oldest Man in the World

Just part of a skull, two molar teeth and a thigh bone pieced together they made—what? One of the most perplexing mysteries in the study of human history. Were these the remains of an ape-like man? lived 500,000 years ago? Scientists believe that they were; they call the "Dawn Man," and out of the record embedded in the rocks they have reconstructed the conditions of his life. How he killed his food, tore the raw flesh from the bones; how he cried and fought and died! How little by little he clawed and climbed his way up to mastery of the beasts. It is a fascinating, gripping story, it is only one of a thousand stories that stir the blood in this greatest book of modern times.

H. G. WELLS' "Outline of History"

Now Offered You at One-Third the Original Price

A history that goes back 100,000,000 years—that traces man's rude beginnings 500,000 years ago—that follows him down through the ages to the Babylon of Nebuchadnezzar, the Egypt of Alexander, the France of Napoleon, the America of today, through the Great War and on into the future. United States of the World—that gives ALL history as one story—that is Wells'.

Not only the history of the world, but the science of the world; the outstanding literature of the world; the philosophy of the world—a vast panorama unfolded before your eyes by the most graphic word painter of modern times.

And The REVIEW OF REVIEWS TOO

Wells begins with the dawn of time; before there were men; before there were even reptiles. In broad, magnificent strokes he paints the picture, bringing you straight down to 1922. Alexander passes on the screen; and Nero; and Charlemagne and Napoleon; and Pericles and Genghis Khan; and Constantine and Akbar; and Galileo and Marco Polo. Never a dull moment. Never a paragraph that is not crystal clear.

And where Wells stops the Review of Reviews takes up the story. It is the history of the past; the Review of Reviews records and interprets the history of the world today. It is fitting that these two should be offered you an educational course such as you get at no school in the land.
